Waterford agents attend Travel Centres Conference

Ian Manto with Jacinta Manto and Lorraine Power.

The Travel Centres annual conference held in the Killybegs Hotel, Naas, proved to be a great success recently with a number of Waterford agents and suppliers attending.

Dominic Burke, a Waterford man and founder and managing director of Travel Centres who are Ireland's largest travel agency consortium with 65 members located throughout the country, organised this worthy event where there were also some interesting motivational speakers from the UK including Russel Beck and Andy Harmer, the managing director for Europe of CLIA (Cruise Line International Association).

Cruising and long haul destinations are doing well with the removal of travel restrictions. Winter holidays are also doing well said Jean Cusack of ICON Travel based up at the Hyper Centre, Waterford. They won an ITIN award last year for best winter holiday travel agent in Ireland.

Travel agents are now recovering and their advice is now becoming more important as the customers have more guarantees in the event of flight changes or disruption.

Domnick Burke with Fiona Parker and Jennifer Power.

Paul Manning, Hertz, and Jean Cusack, ICON Travel.

Agents made many new contacts at the event with new suppliers being represented.

If the pandemic provided any kind of a silver lining to travel agents it is that many consumers realised very quickly that you can rarely get hold of anyone when you book online with many companies such as airlines etc., when things go wrong.

Valuable lessons were learned and travel agents have noticed a significant increase in people using their services again with many consumers discovering the benefits of using a travel agent for the very first time. Not only are travel agents in Ireland heavily regulated by being both government licensed and bonded but they also are easily accessible; most have a high street presence and go the extra mile to provide the level of service that is so sadly lacking in many aspects of daily commerce nowadays.

Possible Waterford Port link to Dunkirk

KIERAN WALSH

The potential link of Waterford Port to the expanding port of Dunkirk in France was raised last week by news website the Journal.ie.

Dunkirk is based in North East France, close to Belgian border and north of nearby Calais.

Rosslare launched a service to Dunkirk early 2020 as the British hard Brexit came into play and new customs regulations were implemented for trade to France and European ports.

This has meant that the UK land bridge for freight is used less and Ireland is seeking more direct routes to Europe. Cork was also stated as a port where they in Dunkirk would do business with and grow trade with Ireland.

Rosslare's route to Dunkirk is operated by DFDS shipping for freight and in summer there was a car passengers service also. This was on a trial basis for the 20 hour plus journey and demand proved good.

Daniel Deschodt, Deputy CEO of Dunkirk port told the Journal that Brexit was behind the push for Ireland Dunkirk direct routes and that they had been examining the viability of such routes for some time.

The port strategy is to pilot a number of routes and Waterford can be one of these routes. Dublin is also being looked at too.

We have used as a car passenger service to the port of Dunkirk, where there is good access to motorways to Lille and Paris in France and also Belgium and there after Germany and Holland.

The town also has good infrastructure and the port is a little away from the town centre so congestion is less.

The town also has much history from World War II and a good beach also for visitors, so it's worth considering if driving to France in the new year.

Waterford port would welcome such links to Dunkirk, said a spokesperson.

Trade is up at the port by over 12 per cent and is positive for the future.

Waterford port already works with various logistic operators and would be happy to engage further.

A spokesperson said: "Port of Waterford would be very interested in engaging with Port of Dunkirk to discuss options to establish a Lo Lo service from there to Waterford, which is the nearest Lo Lo port to the continent. The team at Port of Waterford believe with the flexible operations provided by an experienced and customer focussed team means that goods arriving at Waterford would be delivered to the M50 region very quickly and reliably."

Handyman/Cleaner required 6 hours per week. Mix of indoor and outdoor.

Mainly cleaning with small maintenance and gardening jobs. Long term arrangement for the right person.
