PROGRAMME 2026

(Free to all participants)

Discover Tipperary's natural gems

Explore some of the county's most special and lesser-known natural places. Learn what makes them important and why they matter for people and wildlife.

Understand nature where you live and work

Learn how nature functions in your local area, workplace, club, or home. Gain simple ways to recognise habitats and biodiversity around you.

Practical, hands-on biodiversity skills

Take part in practical training that shows how to protect and enhance nature in real ways. Build skills you can use immediately in your own community.

Learn about habitats, plants, and wildlife

Develop knowledge of a wide range of local habitats and the species that depend on them. Understand the pressures they face and why they are under threat.

Create your own local biodiversity project

Receive support to design and carry out a biodiversity project in your area. Turn learning into action with guidance throughout the programme.

Biodiversity, climate change, and the seasons

Explore how climate change is affecting habitats in Tipperary. Build a deeper understanding of biodiversity across all four seasons.
